

*Authors - Notizie sugli autori **

Filippo Barbera is Professor of economic sociology at the CPS Department of the University of Turin and fellow at the Collegio Carlo Alberto (Torino). His research interests are social innovation, foundational economy and development of marginal areas. His recent publications include Alternative Food Networks: An Interdisciplinary Assessment, 2018, Palgrave Macmillan (eds. with A. Corsi, E. Dansero, C. Peano), and The Foundational Economy and Citizenship, Bristol, Policy Press 2021 (eds. With I.R. Jones).
E-mail: filippo.barbera@unito.it

Davide Barrera is Associate Professor of Economic Sociology at the Department of Culture Politics and Society and Research Fellow at Collegio Carlo Alberto. His research focuses especially on cooperation problems and social networks. His work has appeared on several prestigious international journals, such as European Sociological Review, Socio-Economic Review, Social Networks, and Sociological Methods & Research.
E-mail: davide.barrera@unito.it

Giulia Bocca graduated in Sociology at the University of Turin. Her main research interests include methodology of social research, social networks, prosocial behavior, decision-making processes, changes in public opinion. One of her most recent works was published by Polis.
E-mail: giulia.bocca@edu.unito.it

Luca Bonacini is post-doctoral researcher at the University of Modena and Reggio Emilia and research fellow at Global Labor Organization. After a period of training internship at Bank of Italy, he got the PhD in Labour, Development and Innovation at the University of Modena and Reggio Emilia in 2021. He was visiting scholar at the Luxembourg Institute for Socio-Economic Research and the University of Luxembourg. His research interests include economic inequality, intergenerational inequality and social mobility, gender gap and human capital.

* Doi 10.3280/SO2021-002010

Studi organizzativi n. 2 2021- Issn 0391-8769, Issn-e 1972-4969

E-mail: luca.bonacini@unimore.it

Luca Carollo is Assistant Professor in Organization Theory, Change Management and Organizational Behaviour at the Department of Management of the University of Bergamo. From a research point of view, he is particularly interested in investigating human resource management, employment relations and control and resistance dynamics in the workplace from a critical management studies perspective.

E-mail: luca.carollo@unibg.it

Eleonora Costantini is a research fellow, in Economic Sociology, at the "Marco Biagi" Economics Department of the University of Modena and Reggio Emilia. Her research interests focus on the implementation processes of public policies mainly in welfare and migration.

E-mail: eleonora.costantini@unimore.it

Francesca De Battisti is Assistant Professor of Statistics at the Department of Economics, Management and Quantitative Methods of the University of Milan. Her main research interests focus on evaluation of service quality, evaluation of customer and job satisfaction, evaluation of occupational outcome, analysis of inequality measures, Rasch model, PLS-SEM models, and in general on statistics for the social sciences.

E-mail: francesca.debattisti@unimi.it

Edoardo Della Torre is a Professor of Human Resource Management and Dean of the School of Economics and Management at the University of Bergamo, Italy. His research develops around the complementarities between collective and individual dimensions of employment relationships and includes human capital, strategic compensation, employee voice and employee wellbeing. His works have been published in journals such as British Journal of Management, Human Relations, Human Resource Management Journal, Human Resource Management.

E-mail: edoardo.dellatorre@unibg.it

Carla Facchini is Senior Professor of Sociology of Family at Department of Sociology and social Research University Milano Bicocca. She is president of EconomEtica - interuniversity center on the ethics of economic affairs. From 2013 to 2020 she was president of the Conference of Directors of the Departments of Sociology. Her main research themes - family changes and the dynamics of aging - are accompanied by an interest in the presence and careers of women in the University. She authored over 200 articles/ books in Italy and abroad.

E-mail: carla.facchini@unimib.it

Magali Fia is Assistant Professor at the University of Bologna and member of the Yunus Social Business Center of the University of Bologna. Her researches and publications cover business ethics topics, the governance of traditional and social enterprises, universities and innovation policies, and include theoretical and empirical works. She teaches Mission and Accountability of Cooperative Enterprises and Principle and Techniques of Fundraising at the Second cycle degree programme in Management for Social Economy. She also teaches Social Innovation at the Bologna Business School. She is a member of the scientific committee of EconomEtica - an interuniversity center on the ethics of economic affairs.

E-mail: magali.fia@unibo.it

Francesco Fumagalli is a MSc student at the Department of Management of the University of Bergamo.

E-mail: f.fumagalli8@studenti.unibg.it

Simone Gabbriellini is a Computational Sociologist and Data Scientist, currently working as a senior research fellow at the Department of Economics and Management of the University of Trento. He is interested in innovation diffusion in organizations and he is a specialist of agent-based model simulations and social network analysis.

E-mail: simone.gabbriellini@unitn.it

Alessia Gritti is a PhD candidate in Business & Law in the Department of Management at the University of Bergamo, Italy. Her main research interests are in the area of employee voice and human resource management. Her work was published in the British Journal of Management.

E-mail: alessia.gritti@unibg.it

Marco Guerci is professor of Organization Studies and HRM at the Università degli Studi di Milano. His research interests regard the intersections between organizational design and Corporate Social Responsibility.

E-mail: marco.guerci@unimi.it

Maria Laura Frigotto is Associate Professor in Organization Theory and Human Resource Management at the Department of Economics and Management at the University of Trento. She is passionate about organizational change in the face of new challenges, such as smart working, and of novelty in general. She is author of Understanding Novelty in Organizations (Palgrave). She is President of Opera Universitaria di Trento.

E-mail: marialaura.frigotto@unitn.it

Alessandra Lazazzara is Associate Professor of Organization Theory and Human Resource Management at the University of Milan. Her research interests focus on job crafting, e-HRM, and diversity and inclusion. She has authored several publications in national and international journals, co-edited five books of the LNISO Springer series and is editorial board's member of The International Journal of Human Resource Management, Industrial and Commercial Training, SN Business & Economics, Baltic Journal of Management, Prospettive in Organizzazione. Alessandra serves as vice-president of itAIS, the Italian Chapter of the Association for Information Systems and is a board member of ASSIOA, the Association of Italian Organization Studies Academics.

E-mail: alessandra.lazazzara@unimi.it

Luigi Maria Sicca is Full Professor of Business organization and HR management at the University of Naples Federico II. He is scientific director of puntOrg International Research Network.

E-mail: lumsicca@unina.it

Fabrizio Montanari è professore associato di Organizzazione Aziendale presso l'Università degli Studi di Modena e Reggio Emilia, dove è responsabile scientifico dell'Unità di Ricerca OPERA del centro di ricerca GIUnO, specializzata nello studio della creatività. È anche Adjunct Professor presso l'Università Bocconi, dove è Research Affiliate presso il Centro di ricerca ASK (Art, Science and Knowledge), e scientific advisor della Fondazione G. Brodolini. È stato Visiting Scholar presso il Boston College e Visiting Professor presso la Copenhagen Business School e la Johannes Kepler University di Linz.

E-mail: fabrizio.montanari@unimore.it

Domenico Napolitano holds a PhD in Humanities and Technologies from the University Suor Orsola Benincasa of Naples, where he is also Lecturer in Theories and techniques of sound in the media. His research interests focus on the relation between technology, subjectivity and society, with special attention to the world of sound and to the issue of disability.

E-mail: domenico.napolitano@docenti.unisob.na.it

Vojkan Nedkovski is a Research Fellow at the Department of Social and Political Sciences at the University of Milan. His research interests include but are not limited to individual-level outcomes within organizational contexts seen through the lenses of social networks.

E-mail: vojkan.nedkovski@unimi.it

Tania Parisi is a Tenure-track Assistant Professor of Sociology at the Department of Philosophy and Education Science of the University of Turin. Her main research interests are methodology of social research, social inequality and models of social change. Her recent publications include Innovatori sociali, 2019, Il Mulino (with F. Barbera).

E-mail: tania.parisi@unito.it

Matteo Rinaldini is Associate Professor of Economic Sociology at the University of Modena and Reggio Emilia where he teaches Sociology of work and organization and Sociology of innovation. He is a member of the scientific committee of the Sabattini Foundation and his research interests mainly focus on both techno-organizational changes and transformations of working conditions.

E-mail: matteo.rinaldini@unimore.it

Stefano Rodighiero is a Ph.D. Candidate in Management at the University of Bologna, Italy. His research interests are related to cultural and creative industries, changes in the world of work, and the emergence of coworking and collaborative spaces from the perspective of professionals and actors at the urban level.

E-mail: stefano.rodighiero3@unibo.it

Sara Romanò, is post-doc fellow at the University of Turin. Her main research interests are social inequalities, social and economic transformations in post-socialist countries, experimental methods, and social networks. Some of her most recent studies have been published in distinguished journals such as Socio-Economic Review, Cambridge Journal of Economics and Nature Communications.

E-mail: sara.romano@unito.it

Anna Chiara Scapolan holds a PhD in Business Administration from Ca' Foscari University of Venice. She is Associate Professor at the University of Modena and Reggio Emilia where she is also member of the Unit Research OPERA. Her research has recently focused on collaborative spaces, remote working, work digitalization and people analytics.

E-mail: annachiara.scapolan@unimore.it

Elena Silsetti is Adjunct Professor of Statistics in different Italian Universities (Milan, Milan-Bicocca, Turin, ESCP, ESE and Valle d'Aosta). Her recent research interests focus on the definition of well-being indices using big data from social networks, inequality measures, and PLS-SEM models.

E-mail: elena.siletti@unimi.it

Luca Solari is Full Professor at the Department of Social and Political Sciences at the University of Milan, where he teaches Human resources management and Organizational Change. He is Director of the School of Journalism and President of Fondazione Unimi.

E-mail: luca.solari@unimi.it

Alice Tomaselli is research fellow at the Department of Economics and Management of the University of Trento.

E-mail: alice.tomaselli@unitn.it